Century Manor Task Force 2

A group of local heritage supporters led by Pat Saunders, a member of our society's executive, recently formed a task force to save Century Manor.

The High Victorian institutional building built in 1884 is the last remaining 19th century building of the Hamilton Psychiatric Hospital. A previous task force disbanded after they succeeded in having the building designated under the Ontario Heritage Act in 1997.

The provincial government owns the building, through Infrastructure Ontario, and will not allow access inside to assess its condition.

The task force aims to ensure Century Manor is saved from demolition by neglect and restored for the future.

For more information contact Pat Saunders (p.saunders@rogers.com) and join the "Save Century Manor" group on Facebook.

The Friends of Beaverdams Church

In 2013 the Hamilton Mountain Heritage Society held two meetings with topics related to the Battle of Beaverdams in the War of 1812.

Beaverdams Church, one of the oldest surviving Methodist churches in Ontario was built in 1832 in the village of Beaverdams about 5 km from the battlefield. Regular services in Beaverdams Methodist Church ended in the 1890's. The church and cemetery were designated under the Ontario Heritage Act in 1994, and the United Church donated the property to the City of Thorold in 2010. The building was in need of $400,000 - $800,000 in repairs but unfortunately the city could not budget the money needed.

In September 2014, The Friends of Beaverdams Church, a group of volunteers, was able to come to an agreement with the City of Thorold to transfer ownership of the church and cemetery to them for the sum of $2. Before the transfer volunteers were unable to do simple repairs due to the city's liability rules. The friends obtained charitable status in October 2014 and are now actively working on raising the funds to restore the church.

The transfer of Beaverdams Church is an interesting model for heritage groups in Hamilton to study as they fight to restore publicly owned properties on the mountain such as Auchmar, Century Manor, and Chedoke House.

Test your “Mountain Memories”

Canada Post has announced that home mail delivery on the Mountain will end this year and be replaced by community mailboxes.

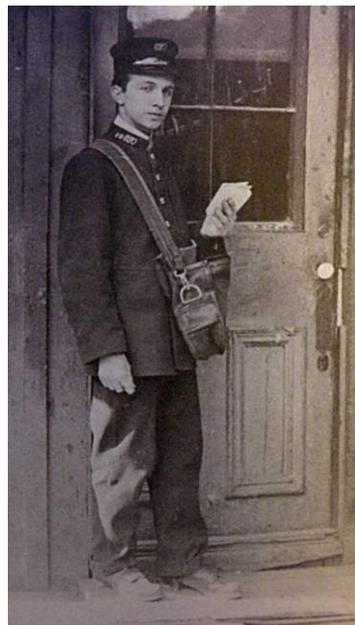

Home mail delivery on the mountain initially covered the area from Fennell Avenue to the brow. Two postmen picked up letters and parcels from the main Post Office at John and King Streets.

Harry Hardcastle (pictured at right) covered the west mountain and would likely have used the Hamilton Street Railway and the James Street Incline to get to his route. Tom Monogue covered the east mountain and would have used the HSR and the Wentworth Street Incline. Both mailmen began their routes at the top of their respective inclines, when their mailbags were heaviest.

In what year was home mail delivery introduced on the mountain?

- a) 1902          b) 1912          c) 1922
